NEW EVIDENCE FOUND AGAINST PENNELL

Bought a Revolver Day After Murder of E. L. Burdick and Frequently Talked of Suicide.

SHOWED EXCITEMENT PLAINLY.

Mrs. Burdick Critically Ill, It Is Announced, as a Result of the Ordeal She Endured as Witness at the Inquest.

Buffao, N. Y., March 28.-That Arthur K. Pennell firmly intended to kill himself on the morning of the discovery of the murder of Edwin L. Burdick, and that for many months the notion of suicide had been in his mind, was believed by District Attorney Coatsworth when he learned today that at 9:30 o'clock on the morning the crime was discovered, the young lawyer, pale and excited, and entirely unlike usual self, bought a cheap revolver; and that for nearly a year he had been quoting to his friends passages from a situdes of a man who had become entangled with a married woman.

situdes of a man who had become entangled with a married woman.

In expressing this belief Mr. Coatsworth implies, of course, that Fennell struck the blows which caused the death of Mr. Burdick, and that his plunge into Jamerthal quarry with Mrs. Pennell was a sulcide plan.

Without volating any confidence it may be stated that until these developments were brought to his attention, Mr. Coatsworth believed that Pennell's death was accidental, and was disinclined to place upon him any responsibility for the crime. Singularly enough, the revolver which the young lawyer purchased for the presumed intention of killing himself, if he learned that he was suspected of the murder, was bought at the same store and of the same clerk as was the revolver which Czolgosz used to kill President McKinley.

When the Pennell inquest is resumed on Monday five witnesses will tell about Pennell's habit of quoting from Mary Cholmondeley's novel, "Red Pottage," and citing certain excerpts as extenuation for suicide, and one person will tell about the purchase of the revolver.

This man is E. W. Fux, who is clerk in charge of the arms department for Wall-bridge & Co., hardware dealers, and who said this afternoon:

"I knew Pennell very well. He came in here frequently to buy golf supplies. It was between 9:30 and 19 oclock on the morning said this afternoon:

"I knew Pennell very well. He came in here frequently to buy golf supplies. It was between 9:30 and 10 o'clock on the morning the murder was discovered that he came in here. He looked much different than I ever had before seen him, and acted differently also. He was pale, his hand was unsteady and he talked as if he were highly wrought up. Usually he talked freely when buying of me, but this time he morely asked for an inexpensive revoiver. He said that the one he bought a month before had been taken by a burglar who entered his house. He paid 55 for the pistol."

The authoritles regard it as the best indication they have of an intention on the part of Pennell to do away with himself and the fact that he made the burchase before any one save the members of the Eurdick household, two detectives and Doctor Marcy knew of the murder, stems to many, of the officials as proof that the determination to commit suicide if it were that, was a direct sequel.

From an authoritative source comes the information that Mrs. Alice Hull Burdick, wife of the murderd millionaire is critically ill at her mansion in Ashland avenue.

It is positive that Mrs. Burdick has been confined to her room under the care of Doctor Marcy, the family physician, singe Thursday.

Doctor Marcy admits that Mrs. Burdick is ill, and says that the ordeal to which she is ill. and says that the ordeal to which she Thursday.

Doctor Marcy admits that Mrs. Burdick is ill, and says that the ordeal to which she was subjected at the inquest is responsible. was subjected at the inquest is responsible for it.

There is a growing feeling here among the authorities that Mrs. Burdick is on the verge of collapse. It is said she is little short of a nervous wreck, and what the outcome of her present illners will be is a matter of considerable anxiety about the offices of District Attorney Coatsworth and Superintendent of Police Bull.

perfected his treatment for rupture, and } rupture is scarcely computable. Throughthousands of sufferers have been thoroughly and permanently cured. The search for a radical cure for rupture need no longer be pursued, for the de-sideratum has been found in Dr. Lewby this physician, who has practiced it for the last 13 years in this city with absolutely perfect success. His treatment is as humane as it is effective causing no pain and drawing no blood. The financial and professional indersegain the confidence of every unbiased physicians of the highest standing, as well as bankers and business men of impeachable credit and unquestioned responsibility. The press throughout the country have commended Dr. Lewin and his remedy for rupture to their readers and promise that the result of the treatment will be gratifying, as well laid upon the fact that in case after case his treatment resulted in a permanent persons suffering with this ailment,
